20th Anniversary of the PMC Museum

October 2020 marked the 20th anniversary of the Pennsylvania Military College Museum's opening, which took place during Homecoming Weekend in 1999. For the past 20 years, visitors have been able to view items donated and displayed, as well as many special exhibits constructed to recognize the history of PMC and most recently those who served in WWII. Maintaining the PMC legacy is also achieved through education of the Dauntless Battalion cadets who supervise the museum during visiting hours, conducting a legacy hunt during orientation week and continuing the tradition of Battery Robinette during home football games.

LTC David Gunther and Cadet Hannah Specht '23 join the PMC Museum Committee

LTC Gunther is the current Professor of Military Science at Widener University. He is a native of Quincy, Massachusetts and graduated from Stonehill College with a degree in political science. LTC Gunther was commissioned from Boston University in 2000 as a distinguished military graduate. A major priority for LTC Gunther is to educate Dauntless Battalion cadets on the legacy and history of PMC at Widener.

Cadet Hannah Specht '23 recently joined the PMC Museum Committee as a student representative. Specht is a nursing major and CREW leader and first learned about PMC through Dr. Jennifer Wyse's Introduction to Sociology course. Specht reflects, "As a freshman in Widener's Reserve Officer Training Program, learning about the strong military presence that gave the university its start gave me a strong sense of pride in choosing Widener as the university where I will complete my ROTC training."

Specht concluded that she joined the museum committee because she learned about the honor, valor, and integrity of Pennsylvania Military College alumni and that she aspires to be an officer like those who attended PMC.

PMC Events Went Virtual During Widener's Virtual Homecoming 2020

Due to concerns surrounding COVID-19, Widener University's 2020 Homecoming was held virtually. Several traditional PMC Homecoming events were reimaged into an online format including Voices From Freedom: PMC Oral History, The Passing of the Flag Ceremony and the Class of 1970's 50th Reunion. The weekend also included a special video presentation entitled World War II: PMC Men Who Served which highlighted the contributions of PMC alumni on the 75th anniversary of the Second World War.

Many PMC alumni participated in these events. The Voices From Freedom: PMC Oral History event focused on the Class of 1970. Student moderators, Hannah Specht '23 and Kyra Jones '21, asked Class of 1970 alumni Jack Dempsey '70, Dave Esto '70, Bill Feyk '70, and Bobby Morris '70 to recall special memories from their time at PMC. In addition, during the Passing of the Flag Ceremony, Bill Feyk '70 served as the class leader who passed the broom drill guidon to a graduating member of the Dauntless Battalion to symbolize the legacy of PMC.

Past Perfect And The PMC Museum Digitization Project

Early this year, the museum began using PastPerfect software to catalog and manage information about its artifact collection. PastPerfect is a commercial database program widely employed by museums around the country. The PMC Museum is launching a digitization project to photograph every object in the museum's collection.

PastPerfect has the capability to associate digital photographs with an object's catalog record so that when the museum is ready to go live with a public online catalog, virtual visitors will easily be able to view images of museum objects along with their written descriptions from the catalog. Dauntless Battalion cadets will be assisting with the digitization project by taking photos of the artifacts.
